Madison…Speaker Robin Vos (R-Rochester) released the following statements concerning the special session call by the governor.

“The Assembly will not be on the floor next week. The bills will be referred to committee and hearings will be held. We’re currently reviewing the legislation and gathering input from farmers, including farmers from our own caucus.

“Assembly Republicans have a long track record of responding to the needs of our rural communities, which includes creating the Dairy Innovation Hub, fighting for local road funding, assisting our rural schools, allowing farmers to diversify crops and advancing many other farmer-driven initiatives.

“It’s important that we continue to listen to Wisconsinites who live in our rural communities before moving forward on anything.”
