

Americans for Prosperity: 'Reforming the American Tax Code'

Posted on Tuesday, Aug 15, 2017

Hate doing taxes every year?

You're not alone. America's tax code is endlessly complex, convoluted and difficult to navigate.

Tax preparation costs Americans more than $230 billion each year. Our tax code is clearly broken.

But there is hope for tax relief this year! For the first time since 1986, Congress is considering enacting comprehensive tax reform that will improve the lives of Wisconsinites and all Americans.

I'd like to personally invite you to join AFP-Wisconsin for dinner and a discussion on the future of America's tax code.

RSVP here to attend.

This is a once-in-a-generation opportunity that:

- *Ends distortive tax credits;
- *Simplifies compliance;
- *Lowers individual and business tax rates;
- *And gives all Americans a better shot at a brighter future.

WHAT: AFP-Wisconsin presents:
