

Assembly in session today

Posted on Thursday, Mar 9, 2017

The Assembly is in session today to vote on an amendment nixing the state treasurer's office.

Members also will vote on legislation to ban local governments from requiring that companies bidding on public projects enter into project labor agreements, as well as a bill that would change the expiration dates on concealed carry licenses that are renewed.

Should the PLA bill pass, it'll head to Gov. Scott Walker's desk. Meanwhile, if the Assembly passes the constitutional amendment eliminating the state treasurer's office, it'll go before voters in the April 2018 election.

The gavel will drop at 1 p.m.

>> WisPolitics is now on the State Affairs network. Get custom keyword notifications, bill tracking and all WisPolitics content. Get the app or access via desktop.

See the Assembly calendar.

Briana Reilly is covering the Assembly today. In addition to checking Quorum Call for developments, follow her for updates via Twitter at @briana_reilly.