“I commend Common Council President Ashanti Hamilton, Fire and Police Commission Chair Steven Devougas, Chief Edward Flynn and residents for initiating the public conversation on the Collaborative Reform process.

“The work and conversations ahead of us will, at times, be difficult and uncomfortable.

Ultimately, refining and implementing the recommendations referenced today and, those that come from the community engagement process will depend on our mutual commitment, respect and willingness to honestly assess and improve community police relations. I am committed and my administration is committed to moving this forward.”
