Delavan, WI — Republican congressional candidate Paul Nehlen is calling on Speaker Ryan to account for his use of dirty donations from disgraced deviant Denny Hastert, former Speaker of the House, and a frequent contributor to Ryan’s campaign.

“Of all the politicians to fail to defend Judge Roy Moore against false allegations, Paul Ryan enjoys special place in the pantheon of hypocrisy” Nehlen began.

“Speaker Ryan has created an atmosphere where the Democrats can falsely smear a righteous candidate with stories of moral impropriety,” Nehlen said. “This is exceptional from man who himself is on record taking money from a convicted pedophile. I ask, what funhouse mirror do you have to use to look yourself in the face, Ryan?” Nehlen continued.

“Other recipients of Denny Hastert’s money saw the error in their ways, but the Witless Washington Wonk used the ‘We Spent It’ defense when he should have rightly gathered a pile of funds and demonstrated the concept of fungibility he so often lectures us plebes on,” Nehlen said.

“Ryan won’t drain the swamp, but Judge Moore will,” Nehlen asserted. “That’s why the fake conservatives like Paul Ryan are lining up against Judge Moore. They know their day of reckoning is close at hand.”

“The Washington Post hasn’t done a single good thing for the people of Alabama in the last 40 years, so it’s hardly surprising that nobody in Alabama believes WaPo over Judge Moore, a man who has made significant personal sacrifices for his beliefs and those of his fellow Alabamians,” Nehlen said.

“Paul Ryan keeping Denny Hastert’s sticky donations ought to disqualify Ryan from making judgements on anyone accused of moral impropriety, especially Judge Moore, who to this day denies the accusations, while Ryan gleefully benefits from his position because of his pedophile payroll partner,” Nehlen concluded.
