Madison...Rep. Chuck Wichgers (R-Muskego), attended the Pro-Life Dinner at the Waukesha Marriot the night of March 28, 2017, with Pro-Life's State Director Dan Miller, Development Director Matt Von Rueden, Legislative Director Matt Sande, and guest speaker from the Population Research Institute in Washington D.C. Steven Mosher.

The dinner's keynote speaker, Steven Mosher, spoke about his experiences that led him to become pro-life and how he is encouraged by the progress made and what is to come. Rep. Wichgers issued the following statement following the dinner:

"Steven spoke about the atrocities of abortion he witnessed while in China that led him to become pro-life. Steven, who travels the country, was encouraged by Pro-Life Wisconsin's success in our state fighting for a culture of life, and encouraged legislators to participate fully in this generational opportunity to continue to implement pro-life legislation."

"The capacity crowd was filled with pro-life champions that have devoted decades of work fighting for life, and I was humbled to be in the room with these tireless warriors.

"Wisconsin is now one of two states with more Baby Boomers than Millennials, which poses a significant and direct threat to our state's economy, and it is important that we act now to reverse these trends by implementing pro-life legislation."
