“Wisconsin Right to Life thanks Attorney General Brad Schimel for having the courage and compassion to defend our Wisconsin law that protects pregnant mothers and their unborn children who, together, are battling addiction,” stated Heather Weininger, Executive Director of Wisconsin Right to Life. “This Wisconsin law, created in 1997, protects unborn children while giving their mothers the opportunity to seek treatment. We grateful that Attorney General Schimel understands the need for this law and is appealing U.S. District Judge James Peterson’s decision to strike it down. When both mother and child have the resources and treatment that they need, both are given a chance at life.”
