

10 Dem gov candidates qualify to speak at party's state convention

Posted on Tuesday, May 29, 2018

Ten gov candidates have met the Dem Party's requirements to earn a speaking spot at this weekend's state convention.

That includes the nine candidates who have received the most attention in the race: state Superintendent Tony Evers; attorney Matt Flynn; businessman Andy Gronik; state firefighters union President Mahlon Mitchell; activist Mike McCabe; former state Rep. Kelda Roys; Madison Mayor Paul Soglin; state Sen. Kathleen Vinehout; and state Rep. Dana Wachs.

The 10th candidate to qualify is Josh Pade, a Kenosha attorney and activist.

Candidates wishing to speak at this weekend's convention had until Friday to turn in 2,000 signatures to earn a speaking spot.

>> WisPolitics is now on the State Affairs network. Get custom keyword notifications, bill tracking and all WisPolitics content. Get the app or access via desktop.