As U.S. Sen. Tammy Baldwin makes her closing argument of the campaign, her latest TV features people who praise the Madison Dem for "putting Wisconsin first."

Baldwin's campaign said the ad is running statewide and it's putting six figures behind the spot.

The spot opens with an older couple as the woman says, "We have a senator that's doing right."

A man adds, "Doing right by Wisconsin" before Medal of Honor recipient Gary Wetzel says, "That's Tammy Baldwin."

A man in a factory says Baldwin is "making sure infrastructure projects use American-made iron and steel."

Others says she's taking on insurance companies to make health care affordable and working with Republicans and law enforcement to fight the opioid crisis.

Wetzel says, "And Tammy's standing up for vets, too."

Three people say her name before the man from the first couple shown in the ad closes the spot, "She's putting Wisconsin first."
