Posted on Tuesday, Sep 25, 2018

Dem gov hopeful Tony Evers' latest TV ad says Gov. Scott Walker can't be trusted on education because "He's the politician who cut $800 million from our schools."

The narrator then says it's "time for new leadership" and Evers would "make sure every kid has a great public school regardless of their zip code."

The spot goes on to say Evers raised graduation rates to nearly 90 percent as state superintendent, advanced career and technical training and is "a former teacher who will put our kids first."

The narrator concludes the spot, "Tony Evers. It's time for a change."
