Grafton - Today the NewDemPAC announced its endorsement of Dan Kohl, citing his ability to win in November and make a contribution on behalf of the people of the 6th District in Congress. Representing nearly one-third of the Democratic caucus, the New Democrat Coalition is a solutions-oriented group of Democrats working to bridge the divide between parties and ideologies with a pro-growth, forward-thinking mindset. This announcement was part of the group's first endorsements of 2018.

"Dan Kohl has shown a commitment to the forward-thinking, progress-oriented ideas that define the New Democrat Coalition," said Jon Boughtin, political director for the NewDemPAC. "He is running a strong campaign and has what it takes to win in November. We look forward to working side-by-side with Dan to bring home a victory and meet the challenges facing Wisconsin head on."

"I am honored to receive the endorsement of the NewDemPAC and the New Democrat Coalition." said non-profit leader and business executive Dan Kohl. "I'm running for Congress because people in the 6th District deserve a representative who will focus on solutions to the real problems people face and will seek to bridge the divides in our fractured politics. The New Democrat Coalition is geared toward that kind of approach and would be a natural home for me if I am fortunate enough to serve in Congress."
