Green Bay — The following is a statement from Beau Liegeois, candidate for U.S. Congress on today's school shooting in Texas

"My wife Katie and I express our deepest sympathies to the families of the victims of yet another mass tragedy. Our hearts are shattered yet again.

As a father, I am angry that the leadership in Washington has failed to protect our children. Doing nothing is not a solution. Now is the time for action, or this will happen again, and again, and again. I have proposed 6 practical, common sense gun violence prevention proposals that will not restrict the constitutional firearm rights of law-abiding citizens. I encourage our present leaders to pass them into law. I do not care about taking credit for the proposals, I only care about keeping our children safe."
