

Nicholson raised more than $1 million during first quarter for U.S. Senate bid

Posted on Monday, Apr 9, 2018

GOP U.S. Senate candidate Kevin Nicholson today announced he raised more than $1 million during the first three months of the year.

Nicholson, a business consultant and former Marine, will report more than $800,000 cash on hand, the campaign said.

The campaign did not announce how much Nicholson spent between Jan. 1 and March 31. But he finished 2017 with $516,583 in the bank, meaning he spent about two-thirds of what he took in during the three-month period.

Nicholson has now raised more than $2.3 million since announcing his bid in July.

>> WisPolitics is now on the State Affairs network. Get custom keyword notifications, bill tracking and all WisPolitics content. Get the app or access via desktop.