

Nicholson raised more than $1 million during second quarter

Posted on Tuesday, Jul 10, 2018

GOP U.S. Senate candidate Kevin Nicholson raised more than $1 million during the second quarter of 2018, his campaign tells WisPolitics.com.

That follows Nicholson, a business consultant and former Marine, raising nearly $1.1 million during the first three months of the year. His campaign said he has now raised more than $3.2 million since launching his bid a year ago.

Nicholson's campaign didn't say how much he spent during the three-month period or how much he had in the bank to end the second quarter.

Nicholson reported $837,960 cash on hand at the end of the first quarter, topping the $637,680 GOP rival Leah Vukmir reported.

>> WisPolitics is now on the State Affairs network. Get custom keyword notifications, bill tracking and all WisPolitics content. Get the app or access via desktop.

The two face off in an Aug. 14 primary.

By comparison U.S. Sen. Tammy Baldwin, D-Madison, had $7.8 million in the bank to close the first quarter.