

U.S. Sen. Johnson: Podcast: Getting things done

Posted on Thursday, Oct 25, 2018

>> WisPolitics is now on the State Affairs network. Get custom keyword notifications, bill tracking and all WisPolitics content. Get the app or access via desktop.

Contact:

Renee Riddle

WASHINGTON — U.S. Sen. Ron Johnson (R-Wis.) released a new episode of his podcast “Hey, Wisconsin” in which he reviews major legislative milestones accomplished during the 115th Congress.

From tax reform and the booming state of our economy to rebuilding the military and a record number of judicial confirmations, the past two years have been busy ones in the Senate. Despite the partisan nature of Washington, Sen. Johnson reminds Wisconsinites there is much to celebrate.

Sen. Johnson also walks through the passage of his signature legislative accomplishment, passing the Trickett Wendler, Frank Mongiello, Jordan McLinn, and Matthew Bellina Right to Try Act of 2017. He talks about the young Wisconsin mother who inspired the legislation and how everything changed when President Trump talked about Right to Try during this year’s State of the Union address.

You can listen to this episode of “Hey, Wisconsin” here.