Brookfield, Wis. — Wisconsin conservative talk radio host Jay Weber officially endorsed U.S. Senate candidate Leah Vukmir on Friday.

“In this primary, it really comes down to a matter of experience. I know how Leah Vukmir is going to vote,” Weber said. “I know she is fire-hardened and battle-tested. She has stood with conservatives ever since her days as a mom with a cause, and she’s not going to back down to protesters and the Resist movement.

“The majority is at risk in the Senate this year, and we can’t count on the Lisa Murkowskis and Susan Collinses and John McCains to stand up for our conservative principles. But we can count on Leah to secure our border, defend the unborn and continue winning with President Trump. There is only one choice in this U.S. Senate primary, and that is Leah Vukmir. I am proud to endorse Leah, and I encourage conservatives to get out to the polls and vote for her on Tuesday.”
