

Vukmir announces more than $400K raised in first full quarter of fundraising

Posted on Monday, Jan 8, 2018

Sen. Leah Vukmir announced today she raised more than $400,000 in her first full quarter of fundraising for her U.S. Senate bid.

The figure covers the fourth quarter of 2017, which includes activity from October through December.

Vukmir pulled in nearly $250,000 during the third quarter of 2017, having entered the race three week's prior to the period's close.

Her GOP primary opponent, Kevin Nicholson, raised more than $400,000 during the third quarter of 2017, having then been in the race for about two months. Nicholson's total included a $25,000 loan to his campaign.

>> WisPolitics is now on the State Affairs network. Get custom keyword notifications, bill tracking and all WisPolitics content. Get the app or access via desktop.

U.S. Sen. Tammy Baldwin, meanwhile, reported $2.4 million raised during the third quarter.