‘Leah has proven she has the grit and tenacity to work with President Trump’

Brookfield, Wis. — Wausau Rep. Sean Duffy endorsed nurse, military mom and proven conservative Leah Vukmir for U.S. Senate on Thursday morning.

“Leah Vukmir is the fighter Wisconsin needs, and I am proud to endorse her to be our next U.S. Senator,” Duffy said. “In the face of unprecedented intimidation tactics, Leah has proven she has the grit and tenacity to stand up to the angry mobs and work with President Trump to pass an agenda that will make America great. Sen. Baldwin is an embarrassment for Wisconsin, and Leah is the best candidate to beat her and fight for lower taxes, secure borders, and our Constitution.”

“Sean’s endorsement means so much. There is no one who works harder at being an excellent representative, husband and dad, and I am very thankful to have both his and Rachel’s support for my campaign,” Leah said. “Wisconsinites deserve a senator who will work for them and work with President Trump to build the wall, defend the unborn and confirm justices that will uphold the Constitution — even when the far-left tries to bully us into backing down.”

Duffy serves as the congressman for Wisconsin’s 7th District. His wife, Rachel Campos-Duffy has also endorsed Leah. She gave one of the nominating speeches for the Republican Party of Wisconsin endorsement, which can be viewed here.
