Today, we commemorate the third anniversary of Scott Walker's announcement that he would be running for president... which kicked off 71 days of campaign gaffes before Walker ultimately limped out of the race.

"Scott Walker has always put his own ambitions over the needs of Wisconsin's families. That has never been better illustrated than during his ill-fated presidential campaign, during which he criss-crossed the country making gaffe after gaffe while ignoring his responsibilities at home. Wisconsinites don't need four more years of a career politician like Scott Walker. Wisconsin needs a governor who will focus on the needs of everyday Wisconsinites, like investing in schools, fixing the roads, and lowering the cost of healthcare." — TJ Helmstetter, DPW spokesperson for 2018 gov race
