While It has not been my experience that the Evers administration is markedly less responsive to records requests than the Walker administration, it's good that WILL is keeping the governor on his toes. Given the contempt for openness displayed by some members of the Legislature, it is vitaly important that the executive branch be a paragon of transparency. Gov. Evers should continue to maintain this web portal and affirm his commitment to the executive orders issued by his predecessor. And he should always strive to improve state agency performance in this vital area.
