(Hudson, WI) – The Church for Wisconsin campaign announced its leadership team today. Two longtime Republican activists, Kevin Hermening and Charlotte Rasmussen, will serve as chairs of Church’s campaign for U.S. Congress to represent Wisconsin’s 7th Congressional District. Hermening is the immediate past chair of the Marathon County Republicans, a Marine Corps veteran, and Wausau small business owner. Rasmussen previously served as president of the Wisconsin Federation of Republican Women, a member of the leadership team for Women for Trump in 2016 and 2020, and as immediate past chair of the Clark County Republican Party.

Co-chairs of the campaign will be:

Brent Jacobson, Mayor of Mosinee, Marathon County
Paul C. Hsu, Farmer, Hsu Ginseng Farms, Marathon County
Will Hsu, President, Hsu’s Ginseng Ent. Inc., Marathon County
Dallas Wuethrich, Frm. President, Grassland Dairy Products, Clark County
Robert Feidler, County Supervisor, St. Croix County
Todd Gilbert, President & CEO, Valley Companies, St. Croix County
Rick Fraatz, Retired Narcotics Investigator St. Croix Tribal Police
John Christy, Veteran, Frm. Chairman of Republican Party of Monroe County
Kim Debels, Business Owner, Lincoln County

“I’m delighted to be supporting a fellow veteran for Congress,” said Kevin Hermening. “We need people like Jason, who put service to our country before their own career aspirations, serving in the House of Representatives.”

“The people of Wisconsin’s 7th Congressional District need Jason Church representing them,” said Charlotte Rasmussen. “Jason and I supported President Trump from the start, and we need conservatives like him who will work with the President to keep our country great.”

“I am humbled to have the support of such wonderful conservative activists like Kevin, Charlotte, and our campaign co-chairs,” said Jason Church. “With their help, and the support of our volunteers across the district, I know that we will be able to take our passion to serve the American people to Washington, D.C.”
