(MADISON, WI) – Today, Bloomberg reported that Wisconsin has lost 5,000 factory jobs over the past year, the second most of any state. Trump promised time and again that factory jobs were coming back to the state, but that is clearly not the case. In light of the report, Democratic Party Spokesperson Philip Shulman released the following statement:

“President Trump has broken his promise to Wisconsinites to bring factory jobs back to our state, and his erratic policies are part of the reason 5,000 Wisconsinites have lost their factory jobs over the past year. His tax scam bill has not delivered the growth he promised, and his chaotic trade war is forcing factories to layoff workers. Instead of using his time as President to lash out at people on Twitter and call into Fox and Friends to rant and rave, he should start listening to the people suffering in our state and offer policy solutions that will improve, not hurt, their lives.”
