Madison, Wis. (February 11, 2019) – In response to the changing preferences of adult students, Edgewood College is returning College Completion, graduate and doctoral programs and offices to its main Monroe Street Campus. The move combines a comprehensive on-campus experience with the convenience of online and blended course options for adult students.

The move will be completed by summer 2019. Dean Health Plan – a member of SSM Health – will lease the facility at 1255 Deming Way, Madison.

“Serving returning adult and graduate students has been and remains an important part of our mission,” Scott Flanagan, President of Edgewood College, said. “This partnership allows us to improve our service to students, to better align our resources with student needs, and to deepen the sense of community for which Edgewood College is known. This transition marks an important next step in graduate and returning adult programs that meet community needs, and we are excited about the opportunity it brings.”

Graduate and returning adult students will enjoy significantly more access to services like the Oscar Rennebohm Library, the Academic Support and Career Development Center, the Military & Veterans Services Office, the Technology Assistance Center, Dining Services, and a host of other resources. For several key services, hours of operation will be extended to better serve all students.

The Deming Way campus has been an important part of Edgewood College for the past fifteen years. When the College acquired the facility through a generous gift in 2003, it was at a time before online and blended educational offerings were replacing some face-to-face formats.
