

Hagedorn, Republican leaders to address GOP state convention

Posted on Friday, May 17, 2019

Supreme Court Justice-elect Brian Hagedorn will be among those who address the GOP state convention tomorrow in Oshkosh.

The party is also switching to a panel discussion format for several of its speakers rather than having them give individual speeches. For example, Senate Majority Leader Scott Fitzgerald, R-Juneeau, and Assembly Speaker Robin Vos, R-Rochester, will be part of one panel. Meanwhile, U.S. Reps. Sean Duffy, of Wausau; Glenn Grothman, of Glenbeulah; and Bryan Steil, of Janesville; will be on another.

U.S. Rep. Jim Sensenbrenner, the dean of the Wisconsin House delegation, will address the convention on his own.

U.S. Sen. Ron Johnson, R-Oshkosh, will be interviewed by conservative talk show host Jay Weber and then do a presentation to the convention on the postmortem the party conducted on the 2018 elections.

>> WisPolitics is now on the State Affairs network. Get custom keyword notifications, bill tracking and all WisPolitics content. Get the app or access via desktop.

Johnson is also hosting a reception and will provide remarks tonight.

Follow the convention this weekend in the WisPolitics.com GOP Convention Blog.