WASHINGTON, D.C.—Bryan Steil released a statement following the reports that the Administration will eliminate 232 tariffs on Mexico and Canada’s steel and aluminum products. In response, Canada is expected to eliminate their retaliatory tariffs on U.S. goods.

“Making a deal to end tariffs on Mexico and Canada is the right decision. Wisconsin farmers and manufacturers must have access to international markets. Eliminating tariffs will result in more opportunity for Wisconsin. I am hopeful this decision will allow the House to vote on the USMCA in the near future.”
