

Walker raised $9 million more in 2018 than Evers

Posted on Wednesday, Jan 16, 2019

Scott Walker raised $9 million more in 2018 than victorious Dem Tony Evers, according to their latest campaign finance filings.

Evers raised nearly $10.6 million last year, finishing 2018 with $345,485 in the bank. He also spent $10.3 million in 2018.

Adding in the last half of 2017, as Evers weighed a bid and then launched his campaign, the former state superintendent raised almost $10.9 million for his bid and spent almost $10.6 million.

Walker, meanwhile, raised $19.8 million in 2018 and spent $23.9 million as he lost his re-election bid.

>> WisPolitics is now on the State Affairs network. Get custom keyword notifications, bill tracking and all WisPolitics content. Get the app or access via desktop.

Going back to the beginning of his term, Walker raised and spent more than $35 million over the four-year period.

He ended December with $62,531 in the bank.