Workers at Stone Creek Coffee File for Union Rights Recognition with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Local 344

“We wholeheartedly send our solidarity to the Stone Creek Coffee Worker’s Union as they join together as a team for better pay and a voice at work,” said Stephanie Bloomingdale, President of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO. “Working families across the state are proudly supporting the baristas, bakers, kitchen staff, roasters, delivery drivers, and production workers at Stone Creek Coffee who are organizing for union rights with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Local 344. Every worker should be able to exercise their fundamental right to join together with their coworkers for a voice on the job and a better work place. Strong unions and good contracts lift up workers and build our middle class. The Stone Creek Coffee Worker’s Union together with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Local 344 are paving the way forward for better jobs and pay. We encourage union members, union supporters, and all who like a good cup of joe to stop in and voice support for the Stone Creek Worker’s Union.”
