MADISON – Statement from Sara Finger, Executive Director of the Wisconsin Alliance for Women's Health (WAWH):

“We are so proud to have Governor Evers standing strong with us, fighting for women's access to abortion care at a time when we see governors across our nation slamming that door shut. Abortion care is about respecting women to make their own healthcare choices, not erecting onerous hurdles for them to make decisions about their own bodies. We are grateful that Governor Evers recognizes this fundamental right and trusts women.

Wisconsinites across our state are fed up with and appalled at how women's health is being used as a political game piece. It is a grave and blatant display of misogyny that a body of mainly white male legislators believe they are entitled to dictate a women's personal healthcare decisions to score political points.

Wisconsin Alliance for Women's Health strongly supports the right of all women to make their own health decisions. We will continue to work to ensure access to healthcare, including abortion, and access to medically accurate information for all who need it. We will continue to track votes and ensure legislators are held accountable by their constituents.”
