Today, on the eve of President Trump's visit to Wisconsin, reports emerged of yet another Wisconsin small business permanently closing its doors due to losses from the pandemic — this time, the iconic Tommy Bartlett Show. Biden for President Wisconsin State Director Danielle Melfi released the following statement:

“President Trump didn't cause the coronavirus, but his failure to adequately respond continues to cause immense damage to Wisconsin's economy. While he bends over backwards for the wealthy and well-connected, small businesses across the state are scrambling to keep the lights on and to make sure that temporary closures don't become permanent. It didn't have to be this bad. We need a leader in the White House who cares about everyday Americans. Vice President Biden is ready to get to work on Day 1 to help small businesses and working families recover from this crisis and build back better than before.”
