The report identifies pandemic pain points, indicators that show families struggling with economic stability, food security, health insurance access and mental health in all 50 states.

Here is some topline data for your state:

- Nearly one in eight (13%) reported that there was not enough to eat in their household in the last week, sometimes or always.
- Over one in seven (14%) reported their confidence in making their next rent or mortgage payment on time was slight or none.
- One in eleven (9%) reported that they had no health insurance.
