Green Lake, WI. . . Green Lake County Republican Party Chairman, Alex Dallman, formally announced his candidacy for the 41st Assembly District to the many enthusiastic members that were in attendance at the Green Lake County Republican Party Caucus on Thursday evening.

“I am extremely grateful for all of the support and encouragement from across the 41st Assembly District over the last few days.” said Dallman. “I look forward to building on this momentum and traveling throughout the 41st Assembly District to spread our message and engage with voters. I am proud to be a part of such a wonderful area and community. As your Representative in Madison I will protect the sanctity of life, push for a smaller government, and encourage continued investment into career and technical education and workforce development initiatives.”

The 41st Assembly District is currently held by State Representative Joan Ballweg, who announced that she will be seeking election to the State Senate.

Alex Dallman is a lifelong resident of the 41st Assembly District. He graduated from Markesan High School and received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Political Science from Edgewood College. Dallman currently resides in Green Lake where he has served as the Chairman of the Green Lake County Republican Party since 2018. Dallman currently works as the Outreach Representative for the Office of Congressman Glenn Grothman, which serves Wisconsin’s 6th Congressional District and encompasses the majority of the 41st State Assembly District.
