(Hudson, WI) – Jason Church, candidate for Congress in Wisconsin’s 7th Congressional District, released the following statement after President Trump’s acquittal in the Senate impeachment trial:

“Today, the Senate voted to end the impeachment political charade they’ve been after since President Trump was elected. The Democrats have taken their eye off the ball, making everything they do about politics and seeking to undermine all of President Trump’s accomplishments. After wasting years, now, Washington, D.C. can stop playing games and get back to working for the American people. The reality is the President already helped create a booming economy, he negotiated much-needed trade deals and is helping close our porous borders by building a wall and cracking down on illegal immigration. Now it’s time for Democrats in Washington to help instead of hinder the president’s efforts.”
