Dr. Jorgensen's campaign gives Americans relief from the grim options they face from the two old parties and she is rapidly gaining support as the electable choice for President. She is a senior lecturer in psychology at Clemson University, business owner, and political activist.

With her nomination, Americans have the opportunity to elect a president dedicated to freedom and liberty- and to eliminating the barriers that stand between us and the prosperity that comes with achievement of these ideals. With her nomination, Americans have a chance to escape the oppressive rule of the Old Parties. With her election, we will take our country back.
