

MITA: 'The Right Export Partner for Turbulent Times'

Posted on Sunday, Nov 22, 2020

Join MITA on December 8th to learn how companies can leverage state and federal export support, financial resources and international connections to increase global sales and expand into new international markets.

Presenters will show you how to access funding resources, including export grants, customized market research and introductions to international buyers. All companies, large and small can benefit. Making the right connections, creating the strategy and accessing resources will help your company succeed in turbulent times.
