

Moved to online format: Thompson Center: Achieving Greater Independence for Adults with Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities

Posted on Wednesday, Feb 12, 2020

The Thompson Center's third conference on "Increasing Independence for Wisconsin's Disabled Population" will be held in Stevens Point. This conference will focus in particular on managing the transition to living independently and working as adults with a disability. A panel discussion will also approach the topic of how technology can be optimized to facilitate the independence of adults with an intellectual or developmental disability. Delivering the Keynote address will be Michael Morris, Executive Director of the National Disability Institute & The ABLE National Resource Center.

This event has adapted in consideration of the Covid-19 coronavirus and has been changed to an online virtual format, utilizing the Zoom platform. To Register, please click on the link below. An email will be sent to you with a link to attend the meeting on April 3.

Free Registration Here

: https://zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_I2qROJq8Syujsuw_z8k6qw

If this is your first time using Zoom you may be prompted to download software (computer) or an app (handheld device). These downloads should take less than 30 seconds and can be accomplished with just a few clicks.