WASHINGTON — In an interview on “America’s Newsroom”, U.S. Sen. Ron Johnson (R-Wis.) spoke about the jobs report released Friday that revealed the U.S. economy added 2.5 million jobs during the month of May.

Video of the interview can be found here, and an excerpt is below.

“I just have to comment on the spectacular economic news, such promising news that we actually have two and a half million people join the workforce again in May. I think the shutdown is definitely over and we can really start recovering, which is what we really need to do. So that’s just spectacular news.”
