MADISON – Rob Stafsholt of New Richmond has been endorsed by the Volunteers for Agriculture® Committee for the 10th Senate District. The VFA is the political action arm of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation.

Stafsholt was endorsed because of his track record partnering with farmers to protect water and promote land stewardship. He is a strong advocate for Wisconsin's rural communities. Stafsholt also has been a supporter of improving rural broadband access, roads and bridges.

The 10th Senate District consists of portions of Burnett, Dunn, Pierce, Polk and St. Croix counties. Stafsholt is seeking to be elected to represent the 10th Senate District in the Nov. 3 general election

The Volunteers for Agriculture® Committee is comprised of 18 farmers and agriculturists from around the state and was formed to give farmers a more direct role in electing leaders who best represent agriculture's interests.
