MADISON – Nancy Wenzel, CEO of the Wisconsin Association of Health Plans, issued the following statement on today’s launch of the ‘Stop the COVID Spread!’ Coalition:

“Wisconsin’s community-based health plans are at the forefront of ensuring access to COVID-19 testing and treatment. Collaborating with a broad coalition of health care and business groups to Stop the COVID Spread is another significant step in elevating public awareness of the importance of engaging in preventive measures to get this crisis under control.

While community-based health plans have done an amazing job educating their members about best COVID preventive practices, adding the Association’s voice to that of more than 20 other leading advocacy organizations will amplify the imperative that all Wisconsin citizens and guests must incorporate responsible preventive actions into their daily lives.”
