Dear Friend,

Wisconsin Conservation Voters stands among those calling for racial justice and accountability in the wake of George Floyd's death at the hands of Minneapolis police.

George Floyd's death is yet another example of the systemic and pervasive racism that makes people of color and indigenous communities in our country fear for their families' health, safety, and lives every single day.

Racial justice and environmental justice are inseparable. Communities of color, indigenous communities, and all of those marginalized by systemic racism are also the most harmed by climate change, dirty air, and dirty water.

As an organization that envisions a world with clean air, clean water, public lands, and a safe climate - all protected by a just and equitable democracy - we understand we are all only as safe as those members of our community who are most at risk.

We recognize that racism dehumanizes all of us, and we are committed to taking anti-racist action. We recognize the leadership of frontline organizations and individuals, and we stand among those calling for justice, accountability, and an end to violence.
