Today, the Democratic National Committee released a new series of digital ads featuring Sen. Tammy Baldwin, Lt. Gov. Mandela Barnes, Milwaukee Mayor Tom Barrett, Madison Mayor Satya Rhodes-Conway, and state Sen.-Elect Kelda Roys, who underscore the stakes of this election and encourage Wisconsinites to make a plan to vote as soon as possible. The ads are running on digital platforms like YouTube.

“The time has come — the chance to vote for a new president and bring a brighter future to our state,” said Sen. Baldwin. “The time to make a plan to vote early is right now. And don’t forget to tell your friends and family to do the same ... The future of our country is on the ballot, and we need to show up like never before.”

“The most important election of our lifetime is here,” said Lt. Gov. Barnes. “We hold the power to bring about change and to bring a new president to the White House. So, make sure you have a plan to vote.”

“This is the time for us as Americans to step up and have our voices heard,” said Mayor Tom Barrett. “So, please do what you can. Talk to your friends, your neighbors. Please get out and vote between now and November 3rd.”

“You need to vote this year, because health care is on the ballot,” said Mayor Rhodes-Conway. “Climate change is on the ballot. Our economy is on the ballot. And, we need your vote to turn Wisconsin blue. This year, your vote matters more than ever.”

“Voting is important to me because I want my kids to grow up in a world that’s better than the one that I grew up in,” said state Sen.-Elect Roys. “I think if we want to make progress as a society, we all have to make our voices heard, and it’s never been more important than it is this year.”
