This week, Democrats across the country continued to tout the many benefits of President Biden's Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, which will create good-paying jobs while repairing and rebuilding the nation's roads and bridges, making reliable high-speed internet more accessible, and more.

Here's a look at what voters in states across the country read about how Democrats have been delivering this week:

President Biden and Vice President Harris visited Minnesota and North Carolina this week to highlight the benefits of the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, from creating good-paying jobs to lowering prices by improving the infrastructure for our supply chains.

More than two weeks after President Biden signed the Bipartisan

Infrastructure Law into law, local news outlets are continuing to highlight how these investments will improve roads, bridges, and highways, help close the digital divide, and more.
