APPLETON - Court of Appeals District Three candidate Greg Gill Jr. has raised over $184,000 in donations since he declared his candidacy in early December. Over $50,000 of which has come in the last month alone, further signaling growing momentum for the campaign in the last phase of the spring election season.

“Campaigning on this scale has been a very humbling experience. When I first started this journey, I could have never imagined the number of wonderful supporters I would meet along the way. During the last month of campaigning, I have had some incredible interactions with people in the District. I hope to use these experiences to become not only a better judge, but a better man as well. I am excited about the opportunity to serve all citizens of the 3rd Appeals District as their next appellate court judge”

- Judge Greg Gill

Judge Gill’s campaign continues to also build momentum through endorsements. Having received endorsements from eighty-eight current and former judges, eleven sheriffs, and ten district attorneys. Judge Gill stands out as being the clear choice and front runner in the race for Court of Appeals District Three.
