Today, former Army Captain and CIA officer Deb McGrath released the following statement after attending the Eau Claire Patriotic Council's Veteran's Day ceremony:

"Having served in the Army, State Department and CIA for twenty-five years, Veteran's Day carries an important and symbolic meaning in my life. Veterans represent the highest ideals of our country. When we take the sacred oath, we pledge to defend and preserve our nation's liberty and democracy. We do so knowing that we and our families will have to make great sacrifices. On Veteran's Day, we honor that dedication."

"We have a responsibility to support our Nation's veterans when they come home, and that starts with ensuring they have access to quality, affordable health care, job opportunities, and improved VA benefits. The sacrifice, commitment, and valor of our veterans around the world deserves honor and remembrance today, and every day."
