MADISON, WI – Today, the Wisconsin State Assembly met in session, voting on a number of bills primarily focused on national Republican culture war issues. Rep. Greta Neubauer issued the following statement in response:

“Republicans in the Capitol are more concerned with playing political games and picking culture war battles than with helping Wisconsin working families. Instead of pandering to their base and playing divide and conquer, Republicans should focus on ensuring our neighbors have the resources they need to weather the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic and addressing Wisconsinites’ real needs.”
