WEST ALLIS, WI — West Allis Alderman and candidate for Wisconsin State Treasurer Angelito Tenorio announced today that he has earned the endorsement of five current mayors from across the state. The mayors endorsing Angelito for Treasurer are Wausau Mayor Katie Rosenberg, South Milwaukee Mayor Erik Brooks, Stevens Point Mayor Mike Wiza, Glendale Mayor Bryan Kennedy, and West Allis Mayor Dan Devine.

“As an Alderman in his hometown, Angelito understands how critical local government is for Wisconsinites and will be a true partner to local officials across the state as Treasurer,” said Wausau Mayor Katie Rosenberg. “He will work tirelessly to invest in green infrastructure, lower the cost of housing and healthcare, promote financial literacy, and advance our shared values to ensure a sustainable and prosperous future for Wisconsin. I’m proud to endorse him for this important role.”

“From his service in the Wisconsin Army National Guard to stepping up to help his community as an Alder in West Allis, Angelito Tenorio has shown his dedication to serving the people of our great state,” said Glendale Mayor Bryan Kennedy. “Angelito has the experience, perspective and passion for service that we need in the State Treasurer’s office.”

“I’m incredibly honored to have the endorsement of such a dynamic and hard working group of Wisconsin mayors,” said Tenorio. “We are building a broad and diverse coalition of Wisconsin leaders who back our progressive vision for the State Treasurer’s office. I’m committed to continuing the incredible progress Treasurer

Godlewski has made during her time in office and I will fight for the people of this great state every single day.”

In addition to these five mayors, Angelito has been endorsed by dozens of state and local elected officials from across Wisconsin. You can view those endorsements by visiting AngelitoForWI.com/endorsements.
