JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN—Congressman Bryan Steil (WI-01) released a statement following President Biden's address to Congress.

"We all should be more concerned about President Biden's actions tomorrow than his words tonight. For the past 99 days, President Biden has promised unity and bipartisanship. However, his policies and actions have been anything but. Policies that eliminate job opportunities, bailout mismanaged states, and increase taxes do not help families and workers. We need realistic proposals to address the needs of the American people, not inefficient, oversized proposals that waste our limited dollars. My priorities are getting our way of life back, creating good-paying jobs, and providing targeted investments in infrastructure," said Steil.
