JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN— Today, Congressman Bryan Steil (WI-01) announced that he will be holding six listening sessions in Southeast Wisconsin next week.

The listening sessions are free and open to the people of Wisconsin's First Congressional District. Residents are encouraged to attend to discuss issues pending in Congress or to request assistance dealing with federal agencies. Individuals needing additional assistance or special accommodations should contact the Office of Congressman Steil at 608-752-4050 in advance.

"Our upcoming listening sessions in all six counties of the First Congressional District are part of my commitment to be available and accessible to the residents of Southeast Wisconsin. I look forward to hearing directly from you about the issues facing our community, our state, and our country," said Steil.

Members of the media planning to attend a listening session should RSVP by emailing, James Langnes: James.Langnes@mail.house.gov.

There will be brief media availability following each listening session.
