WASHINGTON – On Wednesday, U.S. Sen. Ron Johnson (R-Wis.) joined Fox Business' "Mornings with Maria" to discuss Big Tech and the mainstream media's censorship of discussions on the origins of COVID-19 and how they continue to suppress real stories of human suffering such as the testimonies heard on Monday at a press conference held in Milwaukee on adverse effects to the COVID-19 vaccines. The senator also mentioned the Biden administration's complete lack of acknowledgment of the crisis at the southern border that is a direct results of their failed policies.

A video of the interview can be found here, and excerpts are below.

On COVID origins:

"Democrats in the Senate are equally uninquisitive, and I think it speaks volumes of Dr. Fauci [not] testifying for the I guess quasi-hearings the Republicans put on in the House, what's he trying to cover-up? But my guess is because there has been this cover-up, by government officials, certainly people that were participating in this like Peter Daszak, but also China and the media, we'll probably never really understand the true origins or have rock-solid truth because all the evidence has been destroyed, but we know China is guilty."

On Big Tech and mainstream media censorship:

“On Monday, I just allowed people to tell their stories of suffering significant neurological harm from being vaccinated. A mother who subjected her children to the trial, or allowed them to participate in the trial, her testimony in that event has been labeled misleading by Twitter. Her story, a story of a sick patient, a mother and her daughter, has been labeled misleading, and what is even more tragic is, I met with these people – first of all they are national heroes, they participated in the trials – they were so confident in what the government was telling them, the vaccine manufacturer was telling them, they subjected themselves to the risk of these experimental vaccines, they were harmed neurologically by that, and now they’ve been cast aside. The vaccine companies aren’t helping them, our government agencies are ignoring them, they’re dismissing them, and now the media, the social media, is labeling their true stories as misleading. This is outrageous.”

“Just about every newspaper in Wisconsin, the headline from yesterday was that I am fundamentally dangerous because I’m conveying uncomfortable truths, I’m telling people and the public things they need to know that the media, that the social media, that federal agencies don’t want the American people to understand.”

On the Biden Border Crisis:

“The last three months we’ve been averaging right around 6,000 apprehensions per day, that’s a large caravan per day that is overwhelming border patrol. There’s at least 1,000 known getaways, we don’t know how many other people get away that are unknown, that’s opening up lanes for the fentanyl you were talking about earlier. This is a national security, homeland security crisis, that again the media is censoring and ignoring. Of course, Kamala Harris goes down to El Paso, so she avoids the crisis so the media didn’t have to report on the crisis. This is outrageous, this is a significant national security threat and it’s being covered up.”
