WASHINGTON - On Sunday, U.S. Sen. Ron Johnson (R-Wis.) joined Fox News' "Sunday Morning Futures" to discuss Big Tech and the mainstream media's role in censorship of COVID-19 origins and early treatment discussion.

Excerpts of the interview are below, and full video can be found here and here.

On YouTube censorship:

"Dr. Fauci happened. Media arrogance, social media censorship happened. That clip, that testimony from Dr. Kory, powerful testimony, was viewed by 8 million Americans who weren't satisfied with the NIH guidelines that basically do nothing. They wanted early treatment, it was pulled by YouTube."

"The truth has been hiding in plain sight since the beginning of the pandemic, and so it's difficult to explain the collusion, the corruption, of media and social media. Was it all about the election? Was it all about politicizing the campaign?"

"The lies being told, the false narratives across the board, in instance after instance is affecting our politics. The media got their guy elected, and now they're not going to admit that they've been wrong, and it's going to continue to cost people lives."

On mainstream media bias:

"We have to understand how dangerous this is for our democracy. Everybody's concerned about Russian interference in the 2016 and 2020 election. What the big media does is so much more influential, and interfering in our election and electoral process than anything that Russia or China could ever hope to accomplish, and they don't admit it. They'll never admit it."
