PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, WI – With this morning's announcement of another month of job creation that falls far below expectations, it's clear that Joe Biden's economic policies are failing American families. High prices, supply crises, and stymied job creation make it clear that a change is needed in Washington DC in 2022

Derrick Van Orden released the following statement on the disastrous jobs report: Joe Biden and Nancy Pelosi's failed policies are driving our nation's economy into the ground and stifling job creation. The November jobs report is another huge disappointment with only 210,000 jobs created, less than half of the anticipated number.

As we enter the holiday season, families are having trouble buying gas and food on the same day, and the energy costs to heat our homes this winter are almost 60% higher than last year. The Biden Administration can only be described as an abject failure and it's why we need to end this disastrous one party rule in Washington before it's too late.
